

Brittany Breach is a Human Services major at Anne Arundel Community College. For her internship, she chose to volunteer at Center for Social Change. Brittany says, "I love working with children and adults with disabilities. Not a day goes by that they don't impress me with what they know, or the things they say. The bond you form with these individuals is so amazing." Brittany has been with CSC since August, 2009 and volunteers three times a week for a few hours at a time. She spends most of her time in Supported Employment, one of the many Day Programs at CSC. She colors with the individuals, helps with arts and crafts and works with the individuals' reading, writing, and math skills. Brittany says that she has become very attached to the individuals at CSC and in the future she would like to continue working with people with intellectual disabilities.
